

Eye Spy! As our class work towards drawing a self-portrait, we are taking time to explore each part of our face.

We spent time using a mirror to explore our eyes, talked about lines and shapes that make up our eyes and noted the pupils that are circles right in the middle of our eyes! Of course our eyebrows were hard to ignore!

To provide us with more opportunity to really see our eyes, we photographed our class friends and tried to identify each other with just this one clue.
